Welcome

While away the hours watching the ships go by, take a leisurely ride on the Algiers/ Canal Street Ferry, ride a bike or take a walk atop the paved levee path, see art, find a perfect gift, enjoy a yoga class, sip a libation or grab a bite to eat for breakfast, lunch or dinner during a day in Old Algiers. There is a little bit of everything -- from a cup of coffee to a new hairstyle -- and much more that is not even visible as you walk or ride through the historic area. And though it may seem remote -- you must cross the river to get to it -- Old Algiers is only five minutes from the Central Business District and French Quarter via ferry or a 15-minute ride via the Crescent City Connection Bridge.

Founded in 1719, Old Algiers is the second oldest settled area in Nouvelle Orleans. Generally referred to as the King's Plantation (named for Louis XIV of France who granted the land to the founder, Jean Pierre Sieur de Bienville), the land was used for growing crops and livestock and for storing goods, including ammunition, for the French colony that is today's French Quarter. It is also the site where many of the ships carrying enslaved Africans landed, and today a marker enshrines that little-recognized fact in front of the historic Algiers Courthouse, designated during 2019 as a UNESCO Site of Memory.

Old Algiers doesn't even resemble its original state, as over the years -- particularly after the 1803 Louisiana Purchase -- parcels of land were subdivided and sold as smaller plantations. Later, the plantations were further subdivided and sold off as lots, and by the mid-to-late 1800s, much of the property was owned by industry or individual landowners. Annexed to the City of New Orleans in 1870, it has kept its small-town feel with rows of Craftsmen-style bungalows, Creole cottages, single- and double-occupancy shotguns and some grander Victorian homes lining the streets. Groceries, pharmacies, bars and bakeries stood on many a corner property, providing essential goods and services to the community. Since 1975, much of the area has been listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Today, we honor our history and celebrate our culture, but we are working toward a more equitable and vibrant future for the Old Algiers community. Our efforts include preserving our physical environment while supporting small business development and creating opportunities for residents to develop skills, find employment and own homes in this unique area.

This directory is an opportunity to share our assets with the rest of the City of the New Orleans and with those outside the city.

Explore the history, experience the culture and create a future here -- in Old Algiers.

Algiers/Canal Street Ferry: Algiers has been served by ferry service since 1827. Today, the Regional Transit Authority operates ferry, bus and streetcar service in New Orleans. For those on the East Bank, the easiest way to get to Old Algiers is via the ferry, which runs every 30 minutes. The fare is $2 each way, with children under two-years of age free.

Headcase Hair Salon

In early 2018, Felicia Cary and Kayla Bentley opened a hair salon in Old Algiers that caters to just about anyone with hair. The Headcase Hair and Lash Salon is located at 833 Opelousas Avenue. Carey realized that there was a need for hair and beauty services in the neighborhood, and both she and Bentley had good solid experience and some advanced training.

They offer colors, cuts, texturing, extensions and more. Bentley also obtained certification in lash extensions. The shop also sells Aveda hair care products along with a skin care line.

Stevenson's Academy of Hair Design

Dorothy Mitchell Stevenson opened her first hair design academy in New Orleans' 7th Ward in 1973. Ms. Stevenson expanded to its current location in 1985, with the help of her daughter Josulyn and son-in-law James Williams, who was born and raised in Old Algiers.

Programs of study are offered toward licensing for Cosmetology, Barbering, Manicuring, and Teaching/ Instruction.

The third generation of the family, Josulyn's and James' son and daughter, were brought up in the school and currently work with their parents maintaining operations.

Uplift NOLA Yoga

Alan and Michelle Delery are owners of Uplift NOLA at 840 Opelousas Ave., offering yoga and meditation classes as well as therapeutic art classes. The space in which the Delerys reopened as a yoga studio was unused throughout the early 2000s. It opened in the 2010s as a yoga studio, where Michelle became a student. When the previous owners decided to sell, Michelle and Alan purchased the property and re-started the wellness practice, because they believe that yoga and wellness services in a community can lessen disparities. The building that originally served as Tripolina's Grocery, later a bar and then an antique shop, now serves the community with a welcoming place where they can experience relief from the stresses in life." Keep up with their business on Facebook and Instagram.

Rosetree Blown Glass Gallery & Studio

At Rosetree Blown Glass Gallery and Studio, every piece is individually made with its own unique character. Mark Rosenbaum, who owns the business with his wife, Brenda, has been blowing unique glass pieces in an old movie theater at 446 Vallette Street for 30 years.

Ninety-nine percent of the objects in the gallery are created in the studio, which is visible to visitors through a glass wall. The products that are created are found throughout the US in galleries, shops, museums and specialty stores.

The building is an historic landmark. built in 1940 as the Algy Theater. Some of its Art Deco style was retained during the renovation by the Rosenbaums. Follow them on Facebook and Instagram.

Doorman Designs

Alex Geriner began making furniture out of necessity. With a limited post-graduate budget for furnishing his 1880s apartment, he decided to create his own. The first piece was an antique headboard, crafted from a five-panel door (hence Doorman) salvaged from a home flooded by the levee failures after Hurricane Katrina. The old growth cypress panels were inlaid with ornate, 19th-century tin. Word spread, and Geriner began building and selling more beds, slowly growing his operation and expanding offerings to include a wide range of hand-crafted products, including lighting, tables, chairs and more. Realizing his unique position to offer quality, stylish pieces that embodied the charm and grit of the Crescent City, Geriner launched Doorman Designs in 2013. The business uses New Orleans colors, architecture and lifestyle as inspiration for designs that are sold online to customers across the country.

NOMAD Coworking Space

Nomad Coworking Space, which features an open access office space, business incubator and community event space opened in May 2023. Owners Steve Mercer and Kirsten Ebey have the goal to provide an important resource for locals needing a space to get work done that isn't their own home. The workspace has been furnished with repurposed or secondhand items, many donated directly from nearby neighbors. This gives Nomad a welcome and "lived in" feel while upholding the owners' commitment sustainability goals and waste reduction.

"There's a reason we are in Algiers Point and we want to do everything possible to support the success of our surrounding community. We hope to serve as a valuable resource for anyone who needs assistance in new business ventures or has a passion for new community initiatives. We are great at listening and can provide ideas on where to start or how to improve whatever your interests are. It can all start here."

All Saints Catholic Church

Celebrating its 100th Anniversary in 2019, All Saints Catholic Church was founded by the Rev. James Albert of the Society of St. Joseph of the Sacred Heart (Josephites). The actual edifice of the church was dedicated and consecrated in the summer of 1920.

A spiritual home to a faith-filled community of people from diverse backgrounds committed to bringing Jesus Christ to others through the sacraments, the teachings of the Roman Catholic Church, and other forms of prayer and worship, the church was initially devoted to evangelization in the African American community on the Westbank of New Orleans. All Saints Church has remained committed to the sanctification of its people through worship, religious instruction and participation in the sacramental life of the Church. Led by current Pastor Rev. Peter Weiss, the church has remained firmly committed to social justice and racial harmony.

Mass schedule: Saturday Vigil 5 pm; Sunday 8 am & 10 am; Tuesday - Friday 6:30 am

Office hours: Weekdays, 9 am - 5 pm
